BOOK OF THE LEDGER · VOL.1

EPISODE 2 GUIDE

BEFORE YOU OPEN THE LEDGER

About This Book

Book of the Ledger Vol.1 is the second setting guide to LEDGERBREAKER, an original anime project from P7 Anime. If Vol.0 was the ledger of the world and its people, this one is the ledger of how it's made — and of Episode 2.

What's inside

The first half is a making-of: how Episode 1 became a storyboard, and how it became full-color Webtoon pages. The second half opens up everything Episode 2, "Terms and Conditions," adds to the map — the inside of the Bone Lift, the Middle Tier streets, the Registry, the Settlement Circle, and the investment contract itself, clause by clause.

SPOILER LINE

This book goes up to the end of Episode 2, ending included. Nothing from Episode 3 on, and none of the big character secrets. Page 35, "The Memory Ledger," covers how Episode 2 ends.

NOTES FOR READERS

- This is a pre-production guide. Designs, names and details may change.
- Storyboards appear as art and direction notes only. The dialogue column is blacked out.
- We print 10 of the 40 panels of Webtoon Episode 1.
- The Episode 2 script excerpt is the cold open only — the first 1:30, from a pre-final draft.
- Names and numbers that aren't locked yet are blacked out, even in in-world documents.
- Storyboards, Webtoon panels and diagrams keep their original Japanese lettering. English translations and keys sit right beside them.
- Names appear in Western order (Jin Akaba). In-world registries print them SURNAME, GIVEN.
- This is a work of fiction. No real person, group, religion or financial institution is depicted.

Episode 1, "I'm Not Paying" — the story so far

Kanegura is a vertical city where every power is borrowed from a god. At the very bottom, in the Underledger, Jin Akaba runs noodles for a street stall. He's rated ZERO — the one person no Lender will touch. His left arm, wrist to elbow, carries the red mark of the infinite debt his father left behind.

Then, the night after Collection Day, the masked Collector Nil comes for the collateral of Kei Kirishima, the woman who raised Jin. The Special Collection Writ names exactly what's owed: every memory of Jin that Kei has. Jin fights back with stall gear. He doesn't stand a chance.

Lying in the dirt, he hears a child's voice rising from the mark on his wrist: Hazama, the Zero Lender. One promise later, Jin awakens to Default — touch someone's Credit, seize it for about three seconds, and use it as his own. He takes Nil's chains, reels him in, and cracks his mask with one punch. Nil calls it "the same power your father had," puts the collection on hold, and leaves.

The bill? The one memory Jin still had of his father's face.

Someone saw it all through an amber Eye: Mio Kuzuha, a loan shark's daughter and an A-rated investor. A boy whose win probability reads undefined? She offers him a deal. Jin makes her swallow three conditions — then seals it not on paper, but with a gloved handshake.

WHERE EPISODE 1 LEAVES THINGS

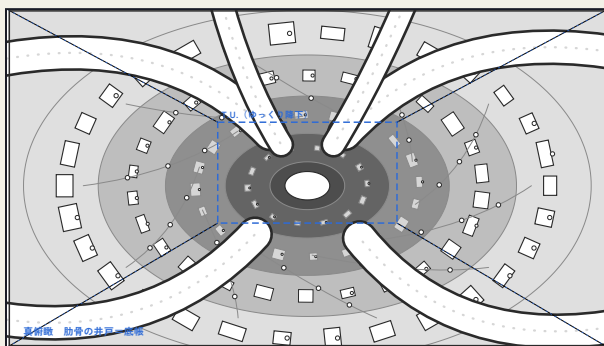

Jin: Rating ZERO, balance $-\infty$. Default used once. Kei: her mark still reads OVERDUE: 3 — but under it, in amber ink, there's a new line naming Mio as her guarantor. Mio: Jin's guarantor, by handshake.

CHAPTER 1 — BEHIND THE STORYBOARD

Behind the Episode 1 Storyboard

Episode 1 runs 225 cuts on the storyboard, 91 of them drawn. We picked 16 to show what each cut is for: the camera, the timing, the pauses. The dialogue column is [REDACTED] throughout. The Japanese notes inside each frame are translated under NOTE.

1 | A vertical city, a vertical camera

S1 · C01 6.0 sec

CAM Black → F.I.; crane down from overhead
 SHOT Top-down ELS
 LINE [REDACTED]
 NOTE "T.U. (slow descent) · Top-down: the well of ribs = the Underledger"

The show's first image. Two seconds of black, then a slow descent from straight overhead. Ribs arc in from every side; a night market glows at the bottom. No logo. No titles.

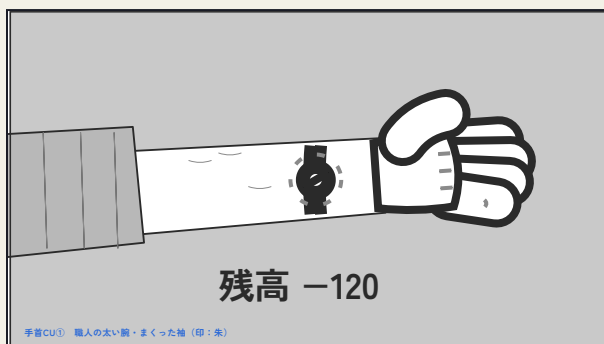

S1 · C02 8.0 sec

CAM FIX → TILT UP
 SHOT LS → low angle
 LINE [REDACTED]
 NOTE "Low angle · END: lights of the Peak / bells 1-2-3, crisp → C3 board"

The bell rings and the whole crowd freezes — acted, not a held frame. Two seconds later we follow their eyes upward. Ribs closing overhead: the show's basic "looking up" composition.

211.2 seconds per wrist

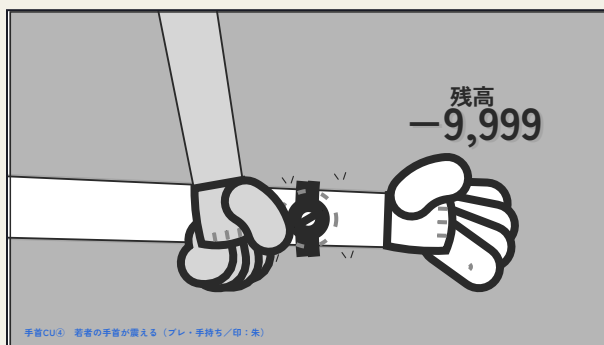

Once the Collection Day notice lights up, we hit four wrist close-ups in a row: —120. —3,400. —18. —9,999. 1.2 seconds is the shortest a shot can be and still let you read one number.

S1 ・ C06 1.2 sec

CAM FIX
SHOT CU (wrist)
LINE None
NOTE "BALANCE -120 ・ Wrist
CU 1: craftsman's thick arm, rolled sleeve (mark:
vermilion)"

A craftsman's thick forearm. The number just floats up. Across the four cuts we change the arm's size, angle and age, so it reads as "everyone in town."

S1 ・ C09 2.4 sec

CAM Handheld (shake)
SHOT CU (wrist)
LINE None
NOTE "BALANCE -9,999 ・
Wrist CU 4: young wrist trembling (blur, handheld / mark:
vermilion)"

Only the fourth cut gets double the length, and only it goes handheld. A right hand clamps the left wrist; the number doubles with the shake. This is where the fear finally shows.

THINKING IN RHYTHM

Three short cuts of equal length build a beat. The fourth breaks it — and where the beat breaks, the audience's eye stops.

3 Kill the sound

In the plaza, a street busker has his voice collected. A few seconds that explain how this world works without a single line of explanation.

S1 ・ C14 4.5 sec

CAM Same setup, slow T.U.
 SHOT ECU (face)
 LINE None (scream → silence)
 NOTE "ECU, same setup, slow T.U. ・ Only the mouth keeps screaming (total silence)"

Mid-scream, the audio just cuts. The picture doesn't change: the mouth keeps screaming and the camera keeps pushing in. Three-plus seconds of dead silence — and the audience sits in it too.

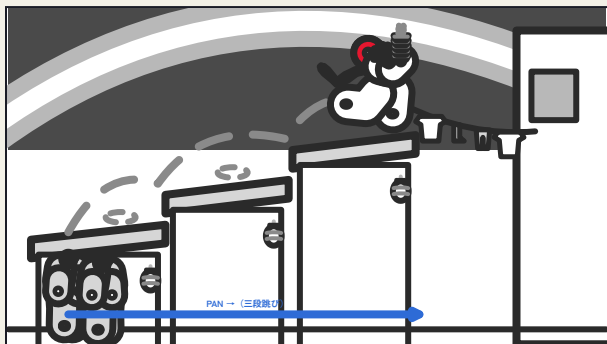

S1 ・ C15 4.5 sec

CAM FIX → T.B.
 SHOT MS → LS
 LINE [REDACTED]
 NOTE "LS (T.B. from C15a) ・ Collector leaves / crowd looks away (no one stops it)"

The only sound that comes back is the pap of the Collector's ledger snapping shut. Pull out wide: the ring of onlookers, every face turned away. A picture of nobody stopping it.

4 | Freeze, then introduce yourself

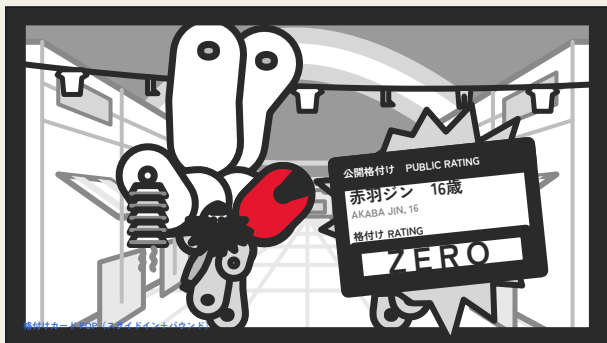

From the silent plaza, a crash of crockery — and our hero bursts in. From here on, it's all speed and lightness.

S2 ・ C05 8 sec

CAM PAN → (up and right)
 SHOT LS
 LINE None
 NOTE "PAN → (triple jump)"

Up the stepped stall roofs in a triple jump, the path marked in dotted line. A wide, letterboxed long shot sells the height gap between Jin and the trainees staring up from below.

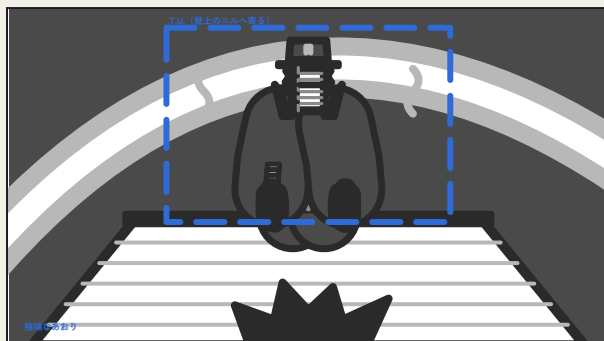

S2 ・ C07 12 sec

CAM STOP MOTION → POP
 SHOT FS
 LINE [Redacted]
 NOTE "Rating card POP (slide in + bounce)" · card: AKABA JIN, 16 ·
 RATING ZERO

Upside down in midair, dead still. The frame drains toward monochrome, gets a heavy black border, and a Rating card slides in from the right and bounces. After all that running, we stop — once.

5 | The fear of looking up

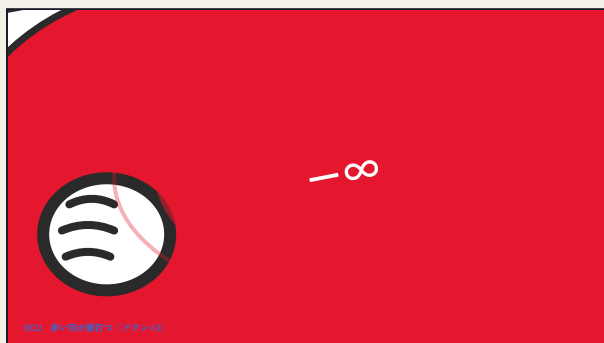

Dead end. The trainees take a step back. The camera shows us why — from just behind Jin's head.

S2 ・ C11 6 sec

CAM Slow T.U.
 SHOT Extreme low angle, LS → FS
 LINE None
 NOTE "T.U. (in on Nil atop the wall) ・ extreme low angle"

On top of the dead-end wall: Nil, the Collector. The only thing moving is the hem of his coat. The chains on his arm stay put. He shows how strong he is by doing nothing.

S2 ・ C14 6 sec

 SHOT ECU (left forearm)
 LINE None
 NOTE "ECU: red mark pulses (thump x2)"

The red ∞ throbs twice — thump, thump. On the storyboard, red is reserved for Jin's and Hazama's marks, red ink, and the CONTRACT SUSPENDED counter. That's exactly why this red jumps off the page.

6 | Inside the white ledger

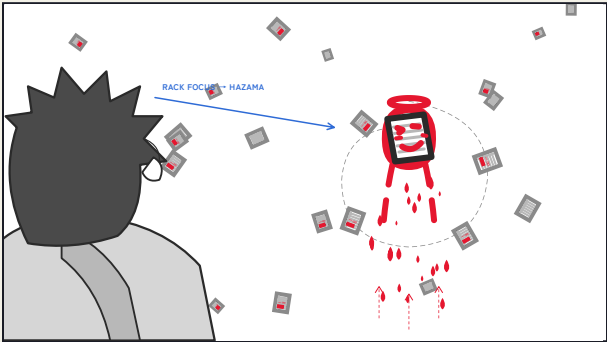

Inside Jin, knocked flat. From the noise of the alley, a zero-frame cut into pure white.

S3 · C01 9.0 sec

CAM FIX → SLOW T.U.
SHOT ELS / no up or down
LINE None

The drifting pages mix three motions: some fall, some slide sideways, some rise. Kill the direction of gravity and you get a place with no up or down. Every page carries a red $-\infty$.

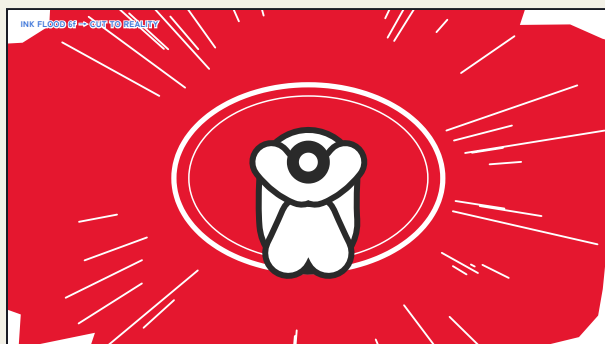

S3 · C04 10.0 sec

CAM FIX / rack focus
SHOT OTS (past Jin) MS
LINE

Drops of red ink rise from below like rain in reverse and build a barefoot child — head, then body, then legs. The face stays hidden behind a ledger page. Focus racks from Jin to Hazama.

7 | Flood it red. Touch at 4× slow.

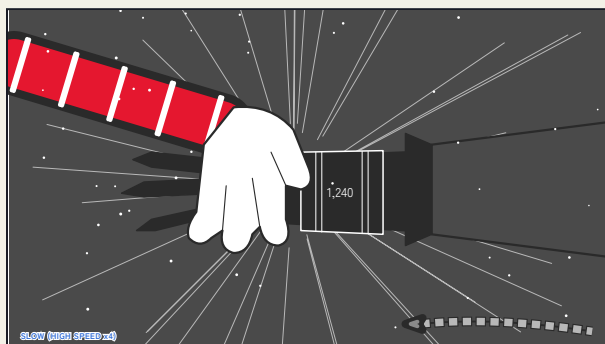

The stamp of the promise comes down, and we're back in reality. The fastest cut and the slowest cut on the way to the first Default.

S3 • C08 6.0 sec

CAM FIX → CAM SHAKE on landing
SHOT Low angle LS → full frame
LINE None

The giant stamp lands, and red ink floods out from the center to cover the whole screen in six frames, edges jagged with splatter. The last frame stays full red — then hard cut to reality.

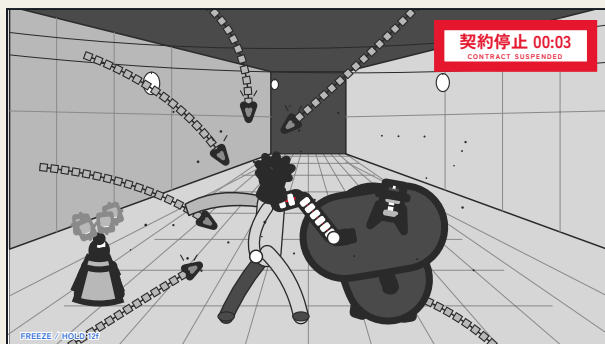

S3 • C12 4.0 sec

CAM FIX (4× slow)
SHOT ECU (hand and wrist)
LINE None

Jin's red left hand closes on Nil's black-marked wrist, one finger at a time. Hairline cracks spread from the point of contact like breaking glass. So slow even the dust in the air looks frozen.

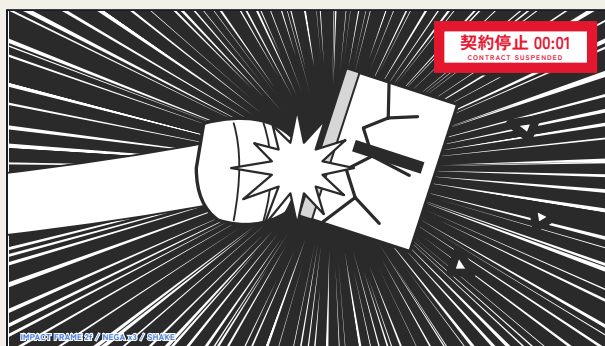

8 | A frozen chain, a black-and-white hit

S3 · C14 7.0 sec

CAM FIX (hold) → FIX
 SHOT LS (slightly high)
 LINE None
 NOTE 契約停止 = "CONTRACT SUSPENDED 00:03"

The chain aimed at Jin stops dead, blade a hand's width away, and holds for 12 frames. Only the tip trembles. Three seconds of "seizure," shown by a thing that has stopped moving.

S3 · C18 2.0 sec

CAM FIX → CAM SHAKE (big)
 SHOT ECU (fist and mask)
 LINE None
 NOTE 契約停止 = "CONTRACT SUSPENDED 00:01"

Three negative-flash impact frames, two frames each. The instant normal color returns, a crack splits the mask. The counter reads 00:01.

HOW TO READ A STORYBOARD

T.U. / T.B. camera pushes in / pulls back. PAN / TILT swing sideways / up-down. FIX locked off. OTS over the shoulder. ELS · LS · MS · BS · CU · ECU how much fits in frame, widest first. F.I. fade in from black. Blue lines in a frame are camera directions — they never appear on screen.

CHAPTER 2 — WEBTOON EPISODE 1, IN COLOR

Webtoon Episode 1: Color Pages

Ten panels from Webtoon Episode 1 (40 panels in all), made to be scrolled vertically on a phone. The Webtoon compresses anime Episode 1, fitting everything up to Default's awakening into one chapter. Even the blank space between panels is part of the direction. Lettering is translated under each panel.

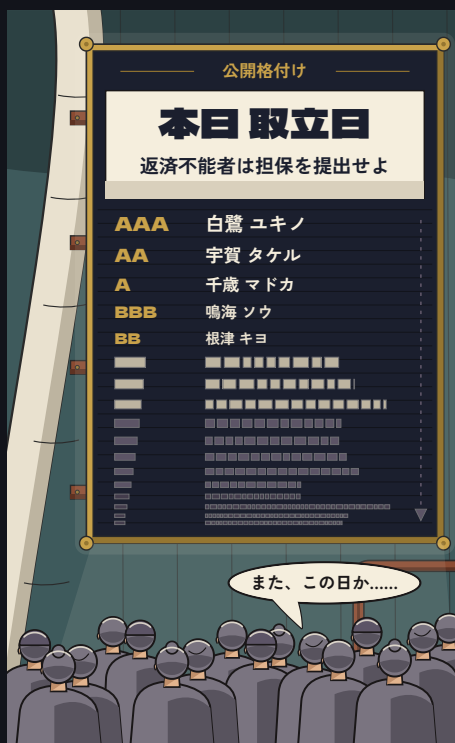

PANEL 01 ・ 60px GAP BELOW

A tall opening panel: the city of ribs, and the bell. The GOOONG shrinks as it goes, pulling the eye down the page.

SFX GOOONG ・ GOOONG ・ GOOONG...

CAPTION Kanegura, lowest tier: the Underledger. Midnight. The Collection Day bell, thirteen times.

PANEL 02 ・ 40px GAP BELOW

The Public Ratings Board, from the crowd's eye line. Names at the top are readable; lower down they crush into illegible smudges. That's what inequality looks like.

BOARD PUBLIC RATINGS ・ TODAY IS COLLECTION DAY ・ DEFAULTERS WILL SURRENDER COLLATERAL BALLOON ...This day again.

PANEL 05 ・ THE VOICE GOES

Mid-scream: bzzt. An empty balloon shows the silence. The page of light pulled from his throat is Settlement Ivory (C08); the drained throat is Collector Ash (C09). The Webtoon's promise: show the price within the first five panels.

SFX AAAAAAH ・ BZZT

CAPTION —音が、消えた。

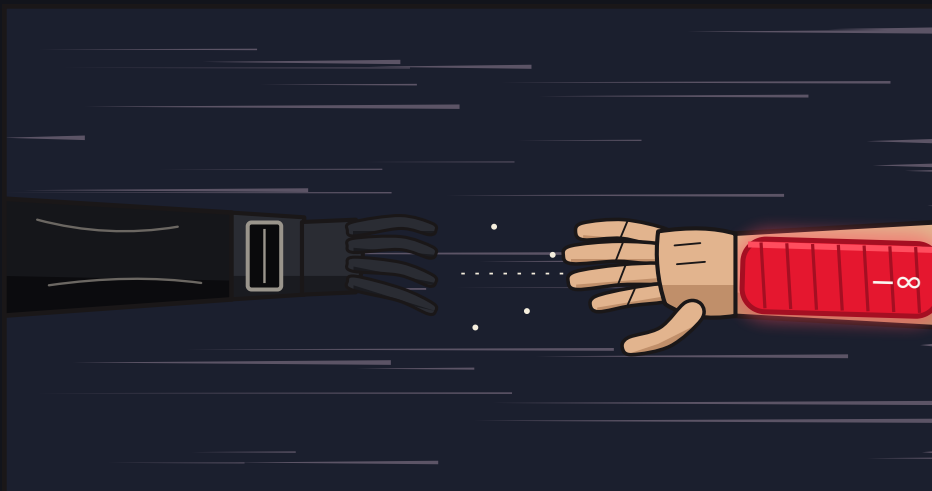

PANEL 10 ・ THE ZERO CARD

The anime's freeze frame, rebuilt as one tall panel: upside-down Jin and his Rating card. Only the red mark, the red lock of hair and the card's ZERO get ledger red.

SFX KA-CHING (pose!)

CARD PUBLIC RATING ・ AKABA JIN ・ 16 ・ RATING ZERO

BALLOON Hi. I'm the least valuable person in this city.

PANEL 32 · 400px GAP BELOW

A thin, wordless strip. Nil's black-marked wrist on the left; Jin's red left hand reaching in from the right. Not touching yet — that gap is the whole panel. On a phone, a big empty scroll follows before the drop into the next full-height panel.

PANEL 33 · FULL HEIGHT

Contact. The black mark blanks to white; a red strike-through cuts the balance. Red ink sprays. The only sound is a high, glassy crack.

MARK BALANCE AA 4,820,000
SFX KIIIN—

The eye drops in one rush: mask, grabbing hand, Jin's eyes. What the anime stretches with 4× slow motion, the Webtoon stretches with the height of the panel.

DEFAULT'S THREE TELLS

- ① A red strike-through on the target's number. ② The red counter: CONTRACT SUSPENDED 00:03. ③ The memory that pays for it blanks out like a white ledger page. Anime, Webtoon and this book all show it the same way.

PANEL 34 · 120px GAP BELOW

The red counter: CONTRACT SUSPENDED 00:03. White-ledger ground (C80), ledger-red type. From here, the next three seconds are counted out in panels — 00:02, 00:01, 00:00.

COUNTER 契約停止 = CONTRACT SUSPENDED · 00:03

ANIME VS. WEBTOON: TWO WAYS TO COUNT TIME

Anime builds a pause out of seconds. In a Webtoon the reader scrolls with their own thumb, so the pause is built from the empty space under a panel, in pixels. 400px under panel 32, 300px under panel 37. Scene changes get a big gap; a rapid-fire run gets zero.

Jin reels Nil in by his own chain and cocks his right fist. The catchphrase gets no balloon — just huge lettering. Zero gap: straight down into the hit.

LETTERING "I'm not paying."

COUNTER 00:02

PANEL 37 • 300px GAP BELOW

Out of silence, one hit at full volume. The fist lands in the ledger-cover mask and splits it wide open. White ground, speed lines. Counter: 00:01. In Episode 2 this crack comes back as the "rebound mask" (p.33).

SFX DOOM

COUNTER 00:01

PANEL 40 · THE LAST PANEL

Pull back to a high tearoom window in the Middle Tier — then an extreme close-up, numbers streaming through the iris of a right eye. The other eye hides behind her fringe.

EYE 0.3% · BALANCE: UNMEASURABLE · -∞ ·
AA-0 00:03
CAPTION TO BE CONTINUED

The Webtoon's palette has one rule: ledger red is the only strong color. Against that, Mio's eye in this panel is amber (C70).

After forty panels, the first strong color that isn't red hits the reader's eye. That's the signal: this story continues. It's the one exception, there to make a cliffhanger out of color.

THE OTHER 30 PANELS

The rest of Webtoon Episode 1 isn't printed here. We're holding it back to release for free later.

How color works: line, color, callouts

Every panel goes through three stages before it's finished. Here's panel 10 (p.14), step by step. Lettering: SFX "KA-CHING (pose!)" · card "PUBLIC RATING · AKABA JIN · 16 · RATING ZERO" · balloon "Hi. I'm the least valuable person in this city."

① Line art. Just linework and solid blacks on white. Character lines are #1A1718; backgrounds are #2A2A2A, so the two never blur together.

② Color. Flat fills with one level of shadow — classic anime cel shading. Two light sources: the white light from the Peak, and warm lantern light.

WHY ONLY ONE LEVEL OF SHADOW?

Several artists color the same chapter, so we keep the number of steps low and the results match no matter who's painting. The trade-off: color numbers are strictly fixed (next page).

③ Callouts. On top of the line art, every fill area gets a leader line and a color number. 影 = shadow tone, 光 = highlight.

Colors are called by number, C01 to C83. Nothing off the chart gets used; any exception gets added to the chart first. Panel 10 uses 15 colors.

■ C01	Vault Night (night sky)
■ C02	Underledger Teal-Gray (walls)
■ C05	Lantern Glow
■ C07	Bourse Gold (card frame)
■ C20	Jin's mark
■ C32	Jin's red lock of hair
■ C34	Jin's towel
■ C33	Jin's work jacket (navy)

TWO RULES

- ① Red is for the ledger only. High-saturation red goes to debt and to Jin (and Hazama) — nothing else. Never backgrounds, never extras' clothes; even red signage gets knocked down to Mid-Tier Rust (C03). So when red hits the screen, it's always about debt.
- ② Mio's amber is the one exception. The only strong non-red color in Webtoon Episode 1 is Mio's eye in the final panel (C70). The hook into the next chapter is told in color.

CHAPTER 3 — EPISODE 2

Episode 2: "Terms and Conditions"

第2話「投資契約」 · approx. 22 min

The morning after the handshake, Mio shows up with the real thing: a formal investment contract, ready to file with the Bourse. Article 12, on the last page: if you lose, whatever your guarantor loses becomes your debt. Jin, whose arm is already red with his father's debt, shoves the stack right back. "I'm done with debt."

Then Mio's Eye reads out the number on Kei's guarantee: 29 days until it lapses. And the last Settlement Jin could get on the card before Collection Day? Registration closes tonight at eight.

A ZERO can't ride the Bone Lift cage. So, on a tip from Tsubame, Jin and Mio climb an old passage through the inside of the bone — with Nil, his mask stitched back together, right behind them. Mio's Eye reads. Jin touches. And they've budgeted exactly two Defaults.

BLOCK	TIME	WHAT HAPPENS
Cold Open	00:00	Breakfast / a reflex Default / enter Mio
OP	01:30	Opening titles (debuting this episode)
Act 1	03:00	The fine print / 29 days and tonight's deadline / the back-road tip
Eyecatch	08:40	"2 LEFT"
Act 2	08:50	Inside the Bone Lift / Nil gives chase / two touches only
Act 3	15:40	Middle Tier lights / provisional entry / a name on the board
ED · Tag	19:50	Ending / the stall at midnight; Nil's ledger

Three things to watch for

① EVERY RULE OF THE POWER, IN 40 SECONDS

Morning at the stall. Tsubame drops from the roof going for Jin's chashu — and Jin grabs her wrist on reflex. Red strike-through. 00:03. On borrowed speed, he catches every bowl in midair. Then: an empty bowl. Touch, three seconds, steal it, pay in memory. If Episode 2 is your first, you get it all without a word of explanation.

② TWO COUNTERS

The red CONTRACT SUSPENDED 00:03 now has company: an amber counter on the opposite side of the screen. Mio's Eye is counting the 10-second reconnect — how long before Default works on the same target again. Two clocks run at once, and Jin jumps at exactly ten.

③ A NAME ON THE BOARD

The Ratings Board in the Middle Tier plaza. Below even the blank gray rows, red ink starts writing on its own: AKABA, JIN / ZERO (PROV.). The zero point of a rise from dead last, on the record.

NEW IDEA: THE "BUDGET"

That reflex touch at breakfast? Mio calls it pure waste. Every Default takes one of Jin's memories, so Mio sets the number of touches in advance. Budget for the Bone Lift: two. If two isn't enough, she'll read until it is — that's the job of a guarantor who takes fifty percent of his winnings.

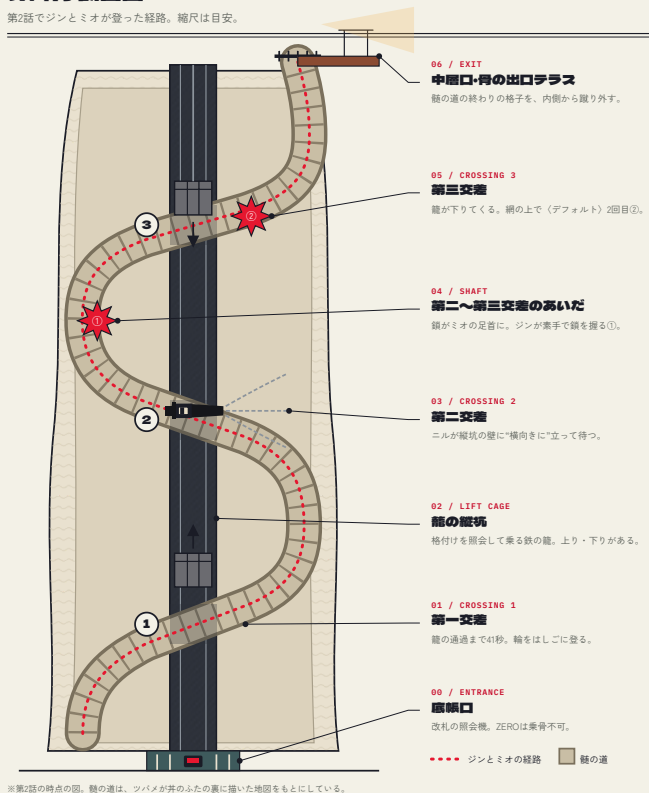

Defaults used in Episode 2: three — one at breakfast, two inside the Bone Lift.

KEY ・ BOTTOM TO TOP

- 06 Middle Tier Gate / Bone Exit Terrace. They kick out the grate at the end of the Marrow Road from inside.
- 04 Shaft, Crossings 2-3. A chain wraps Mio's ankle; Jin grabs it bare-handed — Default #1 ①.
- 02 Cage shaft. Iron cages that scan your Rating before you ride. Up and down.
- 00 Underledger Gate. Rating scanners at the turnstiles. ZEROs can't board.

- 05 Crossing 3. The cage comes down. Default #2 ②, on top of the net.
- 03 Crossing 2. Nil waits, standing sideways on the shaft wall.
- 01 Crossing 1. 41 seconds till the cage passes. Climb the rings like a ladder.

Legend: ジンとミオの経路 Jin & Mio's route ・ 髓の道 the Marrow Road ・ Footnote: as of Episode 2; based on the map Tsubame drew on the underside of a bowl lid.

The Bone Lift in cross-section. The cage shaft runs up the middle; the Marrow Road winds around it. 1-3 are the crossings; red ① and ② mark where Jin used Default.

The Bone Lift and the Marrow Road

The Bone Lifts are elevators inside the ribs, linking tier to tier. The bone is hollow, and iron cages ride up and down it — once they've scanned your Rating. But there's a second, older passage coiled around that hollow: the channel the god's marrow once ran through. The Marrow Road.

POINT	WHAT'S THERE
Underledger Gate	A huge opening at the root of the bone. Lines at the turnstile scanners.
Crossing 1	First place the Marrow Road cuts across the cage shaft. Wait for the cage, then cross.
Crossing 2	A Collection Bureau lookout post. In Episode 2, Nil is waiting here.
Crossing 3	Right in the cage's path. If one comes down from above, there's nowhere to go.
Exit	A grate at the end of the road. Beyond it: the Bone Exit Terrace, Middle Tier.

Inside, rings of bone stack up like concentric circles — a ladder, if you're desperate. Look straight up and there's white light far, far above. The only map is the one Tsubame drew in grease pencil on the underside of a bowl lid (p.32).

Notice to All Passengers

Passengers without a Rating may not board.

Passengers rated A or above may not bring unrated companions aboard.

THE BOURSE · TRANSIT OFFICE

OFF-THE-BOOKS TRAVEL

When someone with no Rating (a ZERO) climbs to another tier unregistered, that's off-the-books travel — and the Collection Bureau can move to collect, Collection Day or not. It's why Nil can chase them up the bone in Episode 2.

The Middle Tier streets

Past the grate they kick out of the bone, the screen blows out to white, then slowly finds its exposure again. Here's the first view of Episode 2's Act 3, as one picture.

The Middle Tier at night. Numbers match the guide on the next page. Signs: ロープウェイ gondola ・ LIVE 決済戦 LIVE SETTLEMENT ・ 両替 exchange ・ 賭 bets ・ 質 pawn ・ 酒 drinks ・ 湯 bathhouse ・ 印照会 mark check ・ 公開格付け Public Ratings

Smell

Instead of the Underledger's fish-stock broth: fryer oil and exhaust. On screen, the color of the steam tells you what it smells like.

Sound

The Middle Tier theme rides a city-pop bassline. Up here, you can't hear the runoff waterfalls of the Underledger.

HOW PEOPLE MOVE

Middle Tier people check the mark on their wrist again and again as they walk. In this town, when your balance goes up, so does your address. When it drops, so do you.

Six places in the Middle Tier

- ① Bone Exit Terrace

Where the Marrow Road comes out. The grate they kicked free is still lying there. The first ledge of the Middle Tier anyone from below ever stands on.
- ② Sky gondolas

Rust-colored cars strung between the bones. The space under the station is where people hang out to watch Settlements.
- ③ Street monitors

Big screens streaming Settlements live, with old bouts on loop. The bookies' odds go up here too.
- ④ Public Ratings Board

A board in the plaza. Names cascade down from AAA to D. Near the very top: AA SAKAKI, DŌGEN.
- ⑤ Bourse Middle Tier Registry

A small white-marble window where Settlements are registered. The second hand of its wall clock ticks with the same sound as the white ledger space (p.27).
- ⑥ Neon signs & stalls

Exchange, bets, pawn, drinks, bathhouse. Signs borrow their Lenders' colors — but never ledger red.

The Registry and "provisional entry"

Middle Tier Settlements have a monthly registration deadline. In Episode 2, "the last card you can get before Collection Day" closes at eight that night.

- STEP 1 To the window. Open until the monthly deadline.

STEP 2 Scan the debtor. A ZERO can't be read: ERROR
・ BALANCE: UNMEASURABLE.

STEP 3 Match the guarantor. An A-rated guarantor puts up collateral: APPROVED.
- STEP 4 Provisional entry. Name goes up on the bottom row of the board.

STEP 5 Full entry — made by the collateral declaration at the first Settlement. Not yet, as of Ep.2.

20:00 Deadline. They made it with 39 sec. to spare (19:59:21). One card left before Collection Day.

How does a ZERO register?

Jin puts his wrist to the scanner: BALANCE: UNMEASURABLE. A ZERO entry has no precedent. So the guarantor comes along, has her own mark checked, and shows she'll put up the collateral. That's provisional entry.

When does it become official?

Full registration happens when the collateral declaration is made at the first Settlement. At the window, Mio says she'll stake 30% of her credit limit — the maximum.

WHERE THE CLERK STOPPED

Flipping through the contract, the registry clerk stops dead at Article 12 — and shoots Jin a look. What it says is on p.30.

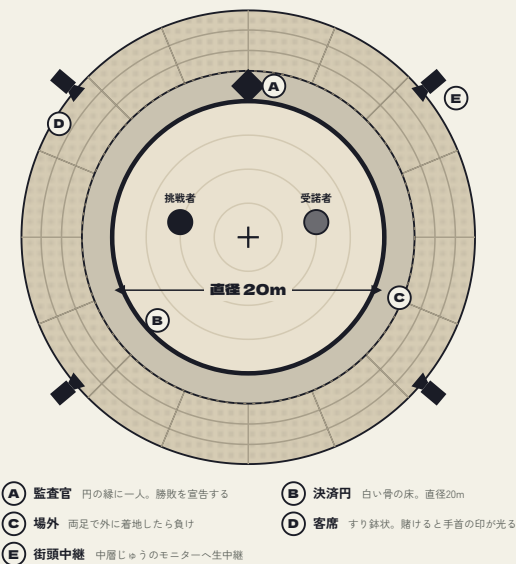

The Settlement Circle, mapped

A Settlement is fought on a Bourse-licensed Circle. Jin's first bout has been booked into Middle Tier Circle No. 7.

The fight card: how it works

In the Middle Tier, the Settlement lineup is called the card. It's put together at the Registry and posted in the plaza and on every street monitor. Through Mio's Eye, the posting floats up in amber.

THE BOURSE · MIDDLE TIER REGISTRY

RULE	WHAT IT MEANS
Deadline	One every month. Miss it and you're not on that month's card.
vs. Collection Day	Kei's guarantee is a promise to pay out of the first Settlement's purse. No card before Collection Day, and the guarantee lapses (p.34).
A ZERO entry	No credit limit, so only if a guarantor declares the collateral for him.
Stakes	Up to 30% of the credit limit, equal on both sides.

ABOUT THE FIRST OPPONENT

A C-rated fighter who borrows from Hikube, the Flame Lender, vermilion lines up to the elbow. Mio's Eye puts their win probability at 96.1%; Jin's column just blinks undefined. Name and look are still being designed, so we're keeping them under wraps for now.

The Investment Contract (original copy)

The contract Mio files with the Bourse in Episode 2, set out as clauses for this book (excerpt). It's the Episode 1 handshake, on paper.

INVESTMENT CONTRACT

ORIGINAL · FOR FILING WITH THE BOURSE

The guarantor, KUZUHA, MIO ("the Guarantor"), and the debtor, AKABA, JIN ("the Debtor"), agree as follows.

ART. 1 The Guarantor shall make collateral declarations on the Debtor's behalf in his Settlements, and shall put up that collateral from her own credit limit.

ART. 2 The purse from the first Settlement shall go to repaying the arrears of KIRISHIMA, KEI, per Special Term 1. From the second Settlement on, the Guarantor receives fifty percent of the Debtor's winnings.

(Articles 3–11 omitted)

SPECIAL TERM 1 The first Settlement purse pays off Kei's arrears. First thing.

SPECIAL TERM 2 Nobody's collateral gets taken for Jin Akaba's sake.

SPECIAL TERM 3 Someday, the Kuzuha books burn too.

ART. 12 Any collateral the Guarantor loses through defeat becomes a debt owed by the Debtor, AKABA, JIN, to the House of Kuzuha.

Guarantor: KUZUHA, MIO  amber seal

Debtor: AKABA, JIN  (signature)

Forty, then fifty. In Episode 1, Mio said "forty percent of your winnings." That was the price of intel and gear, she explains. Putting up collateral too? With the guarantee fee, it's fifty.

The special terms are handwritten. They're the three conditions Jin counted off on his fingers up on the rib in Episode 1, word for word. The third is pressed in a little harder.

CHAPTER 5 — CHARACTER UPDATES

葛葉 ミオ · KUZUHA, MIO

Mio Kuzuha

In Episode 2, Mio puts her name on the record as Jin's guarantor. She puts up the collateral. She makes the declaration.

How the Eye reads

- CAGE ASCENDING. PASSES CROSSING 1 IN 41 SEC
- NEXT FOOTHOLD: 3 RINGS RIGHT, 2 UP
- COLLECTOR / RATING AA · CREDIT: SEIZURE CHAINS (IRON LENDER) · MAX 9 AT ONCE
- UPPER RIGHT, TWO. IN 0.6 SEC. LEFT ONE'S A DECOY
- RECONNECT IN 10 CONTRACT SUSPENDED 00:03

Mio's Eye gives her time, distance, trajectories, an opponent's Rating and Credit — and win probability. In Episode 2 it reads Nil's next move to the split second. The Eye's numbers are amber; Default's are red. On screen, the two never share a color.

THE "BUDGET"

Decide how many touches up front. Inside the Bone Lift: two. That breakfast touch: waste. It's how Mio, who's always trusted numbers over people, protects Jin's memories.

HER CUT

The first purse goes to Kei's arrears. From the second bout on, fifty percent of the winnings. Lose, and Article 12 makes it Jin's debt.

BALANCE NOTE

In the shaft, she presses a hand to her right eye for a second. The columns of numbers break up like static, then snap back. By the end she's shut the right eye and reads with the left alone. One eye drop. Her vision takes its time coming back.

"I'll read us enough. That's what fifty percent pays for."

「足りるように私が読む。それが五割の仕事」 — Mio Kuzuha, Episode 2

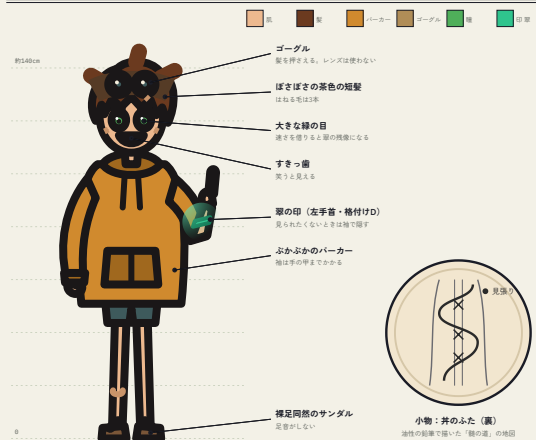

ツバメ ・ TSUBAME

Tsubame

BACK ROADS
DEALER

MODEL SHEET - TSUBAME / FULL BODY

ツバメ 裏道屋

Sheet notes: goggles hold her hair down, lenses unused · messy short brown hair, three cowlicks · big green eyes; borrowing speed turns her into a jade afterimage · gap tooth, shows when she grins · jade mark (left wrist, Rating D) — hidden under the sleeve when she doesn't want it seen · baggy hoodie, sleeves past her knuckles · barely-there sandals; her steps make no sound · prop: the bowl lid, with the Marrow Road map drawn in grease pencil (見張り = lookout) · height approx. 140 cm

In Episode 2 Tsubame is a back-roads dealer. She knows how to get through the Marrow Road, the old passage inside the Bone Lift, and how many lookouts there are. The map is on the underside of a bowl lid. Her fee is the usual bowl of noodles; Jin's answer is "Put it on my tab."

At breakfast she dives off the stall roof as a jade blur, going for Jin's chashu. Jin grabs her wrist on reflex — making her the first "friendly" ever hit by Default.

BALANCE NOTE

After the Default, Tsubame stares at her own wrist. For a moment the jade number jumps to digits she's never seen before. She yanks her hoodie sleeve down over it.

"Info costs one bowl of noodles!"

「情報料は麺一杯ね！」

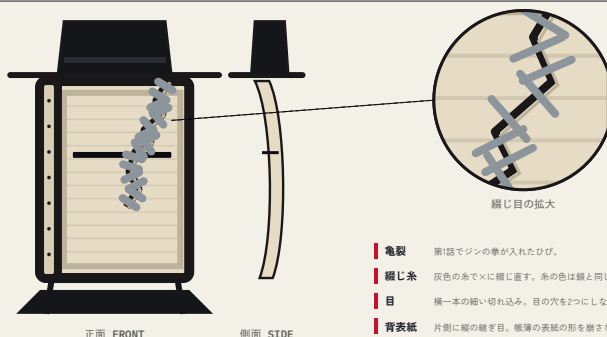

ニル ・ NIL

Nil

MODEL SHEET - NIL / MASK (REPAIRED)

ニル 縫い直した仮面

Sheet notes: FRONT ・ SIDE ・ stitching detail — crack: made by Jin's fist in Episode 1 ・ stitches: gray thread in X's, same gray as the chains ・ eye: one thin horizontal slit; never two eyeholes ・ spine: a vertical seam on one side; keep the ledger-cover shape intact

Nil has stitched the crack shut with gray thread — the one Jin's fist put there in Episode 1. Same mask shape; a row of X-stitches runs across the break. This is how Nil is drawn from now on.

RATING	AA (per Mio's Eye)
CREDIT	Seizure Chains, from Kanagi, the Iron Lender. Up to 9 at once
NEW: THE CHAINS	Bind someone, and their collateral is drawn out as thread . From Mio, it's a thread of amber light pulled from her right eye
MOVEMENT	Drives chains into the shaft wall and stands on it sideways , gravity be damned. Climbs his own chains like a staircase
WHY HE CHASES	Off-the-books travel (p.24). "You're a separate account."

BALANCE NOTE

On the roof of the stalled cage, Nil opens his black ledger: AKABA, JIN — ASCENT — UNCOLLECTED. Just above it is an older line, in the same red ink. The name has been blacked out.

"Payment is due."

「お支払いの時間です。」

霧島 ケイ ・ KIRISHIMA, KEI

Kei Kirishima

29 DAYS
GUARANTEE

At the end of Episode 1, Kei's arrears got a guarantor. But that guarantee comes with an expiry date.

KEI'S LEFT WRIST (THROUGH MIO'S EYE)

- OVERDUE: 3
- GUARANTOR: KUZUHA, MIO
- TO BE PAID FROM: FIRST SETTLEMENT
- COLLECTION DAY IN: 29 DAYS

WHEN THE GUARANTEE LAPSES

The guarantee is a promise to pay out of the first Settlement's purse. If no first bout is booked before Collection Day, the guarantee lapses and the Special Collection Writ comes back into force. And then that mask comes back — this time with no hold.

Paying debt with more debt, Kei says, is "the worst way there is to pay." Still, with her back turned, she gives Jin one piece of advice: "Don't put your back to a wall. Run the edge. Ring or pit — keep circling, and the chaser tires first." Inside the shaft, Jin does exactly that, running the rim of the rings to slip the chains.

BALANCE NOTE

Asked where she learned that, Kei says, "Draining noodles." As she says it, her fingers trace the spot under her left sleeve where the brand is.

"Eat. Then we talk."

「食え。話はそれからだ。」

The Memory Ledger

SPOILERS This page covers Episode 2 through to the end.

Every Default costs Jin one memory, paid to Hazama. The bigger the Credit he seizes, the more precious the memory it takes. Here's everything he's paid so far, kept as a ledger.

EP.	WHERE	CREDIT SEIZED	MEMORY PAID
1	Alley by the stall	Nil's Seizure Chains (AA)	His father's face
2	The stall, morning	Tsubame's speed (D)	That morning's breakfast
2	Shaft, Crossings 2–3	Nil's chain (AA)	The face of the old regular who likes extra scallions
2	Crossing 3, on the net	Nil himself (AA)	The day Kei first called him "my kid"

Breakfast. Staring at an empty bowl: "Did I eat already?" Jin laughs it off.

The old man's face. The old man at the window in Episode 1's opening, who got his bowl handed over from a laundry line. When a customer at a Middle Tier stall yells "Extra scallions!", Jin's feet stop for a beat. Why it snagged, he can't tell anymore.

"My kid." A small hand clutching the hem of a cook's smock, and a young Kei's voice. The memory turns into a white, ruled page, peels away and flutters up into the dark. Hazama: "That one was a little pricey."

That night at the stall, Kei laughs as she tells Tsubame how hard Jin cried that day. "Bet he'll say he doesn't remember." Only the audience knows it's now true.

WHAT MIO CAN SEE

Mio can't tell what Jin paid. All the Eye shows her is one unreadable digit moving beside the $-\infty$. Jin just grins: "Didn't pay a thing. Just skipped out on the bill."

CHAPTER 6 – EPISODE 2 SCREENPLAY EXCERPT

Screenplay excerpt: Cold Open

Episode 2, first 1:30 (00:00–01:30). Excerpted and arranged from a pre-final draft; may differ from the finished episode. Official English lines are those fixed for the dub and subtitles.

EXT. UNDERLEDGER – WRECK OF THE "KIRISHIMA" NOODLE STALL – MORNING 00:00–00:55

SKIP-PROOF: NO LOGO, NO TITLES. STEAM FROM THE VERY FIRST FRAME.

A heap of broken bowls in the foreground; through the steam, the smashed stall. Three grooves gouged by chains still scar the post.

KEI sets a single bowl on the wooden crate that's standing in for a counter.

KEI Eat. Then we talk.

JIN snaps his chopsticks apart. But what he's looking at isn't the bowl — it's Kei's left wrist. A faded indigo mark: OVERDUE: 3. Beneath it, in amber ink: GUARANTOR: KUZUHA, MIO / TO BE PAID FROM: FIRST SETTLEMENT. Kei covers it with her palm. Jin says nothing and slurps his noodles down in one go.

SFX: ON THE ROOF, A FAINT JADE HUM.

Hyper-speed POV. Off the roof drops TSUBAME, a jade afterimage. Target: the chashu in Jin's bowl.

TSUBAME Dibs!

SFX: A HIGH, CLEAR NOTE, LIKE GLASS BREAKING.

Red ink sprays into the air. A single red strike-through cuts the jade number on Tsubame's wrist.

ON SCREEN: CONTRACT SUSPENDED 00:03

Tsubame's afterimage stops dead — she's just a twelve-year-old again, stumbling in midair. Now jade lines race over Jin's body. The world goes slow: a bouncing bowl, flying chopsticks, the chashu, three empty bowls tipping off the crate. Still on borrowed speed, Jin catches every one in midair, stacks them — and finally plucks Tsubame by the collar.

ON SCREEN: 00:00 CONTRACT RESUMED

TSUBAME ...Wha— big bro, you were so fast...

In Jin's hand: one empty bowl.

JIN ...Hey, Kei. Did I eat already?

Kei's hands go still.

CAMERA: INSERT — JIN SLURPING NOODLES, JUST A MOMENT AGO. THE IMAGE BLANKS OUT LIKE A WHITE LEDGER PAGE. SFX: PAPER TEARING, DRY (SMALL).

HAZAMA (from Jin's wrist, small) Hey Jin — I'll put that on your tab.

JIN (laughing) Oh, I did? No wonder I'm stuffed.

Tsubame is staring at her own wrist. For a second the jade number jumps to digits she's never seen. She yanks her hoodie sleeve down over it.

EXT. SAME — MORNING 00:55-01:30

The shadow of a parasol falls across Jin's bowl. MIO KUZUHA stands there: black jacket over her shoulders, a closed folding fan in her hand. Afterglow numbers are still streaming through her amber right eye.

MIO That touch? Pure waste.

She drops a thick stack of paper onto the crate — thud. Gold border on the cover: INVESTMENT CONTRACT (ORIGINAL).

MIO Yesterday was a handshake. This is the paper we file with the Bourse.

SFX: ONE STAMP. MUSIC: OP INTRO, IN.

OPENING TITLES 01:30-03:00

Every episode's opening ends on the red mark on Jin's wrist. This week, the counter 2 LEFT is laid over it, and we cut straight into the episode.

HOW THIS OPENING IS BUILT

It's built for anyone starting at Episode 2. Touch, three seconds, steal it, pay in memory: every rule of the power, in about 40 seconds, with no line of explanation. Mio's last word is the door into the episode's real theme — the budget.

END OF EXCERPT

This volume prints the cold open only; the full Episode 2 screenplay is not published here. Tsubame's "Dibs!" is 「いっただきー！」 in Japanese — roughly a gleeful "Thanks for the food!" shouted mid-theft.

The one who counts, and the one who doesn't

Episode 2 is a story about numbers. Twenty-nine days. Eight tonight. Forty-one seconds. Ten seconds. Two touches. Thirty percent. Fifty. Mio counts everything. Jin counts almost nothing.

And yet Jin kept to Mio's "two." The one who doesn't count trusted the one who does. Meanwhile Mio can't count what Jin is paying — all her Eye shows is one unreadable digit moving. These two will probably never balance their books. I want this to be the story of how they watch each other's backs anyway.

In the first half we showed you how Episode 1 was put together: a few seconds of silence, 1.2 seconds per wrist, a rule that allows exactly one red. Out of sight, we're counting a lot of things.

To everyone who picked up this ledger after Vol.0: thank you, from the bottom of my heart. We'll pay off the tab in the show itself. Promise.

NEXT LEDGER

Book of the Ledger Vol.2 (planned)

Picking up with Episode 3, "First Settlement." Middle Tier Circle No. 7, and Jin's first licensed Settlement. His opponent's win probability: 96.1%. Touches he can afford: probably just one. We'll let you know as soon as it's confirmed.
